Roisin Hanley Architects is a design led, creative architectural studio with over 15 year experience. We strive to achieve excellence in architectural design through the manipulation of space, light and form within the context of the existing Architectural Heritage.

The practice was established by Roisin Hanley in 2003, and is based Dun Laoghaire, County Dublin. In the relatively short time RHA has continued to progress as a leading firm specialising in conservation and innovative building design. Our design solutions conserve the historic fabric, whilst giving new meaning to the buildings we work with.

Our design team is dedicated to creating and delivering high quality buildings that embrace modern design while respecting the historical fabric of our heritage. Our aim is to create an architectural environment that inspires peoples through light and space across a wide range of projects.
